Ph.D. Graduate Teaching Assistantships for Academic Year 2016-17

The Graduate Program of Hydrologic Sciences at the University of Nevada Reno is seeking applications for Graduate Teaching Assistantships (GTA) available for the Fall 2016-Spring 2017 academic year for new incoming Ph.D. students pursuing degrees in Hydrology or Hydrogeology. The assistantships will provide 10 months of graduate stipend and tuition coverage starting in August 2016. Selected student will be a GTA for undergraduate courses in the Geological Sciences and Engineering or the Natural Resources and Environmental Science Departments. To be eligible for consideration for this assistantship, students should apply to the GPHS by January 15, 2016, and international students must meet the language requirements specified by the Graduate School (see http://www.unr.edu/grad/funding/graduate-assistantships for more information about these requirements).
